WHISTLEBLOWING POLICY

Interpretation

In this policy, 'the Company' means the TWG company that employs you (or, for policies about how we do business, the TWG company concerned): Roofworx (UK) Limited (Co. No. 08946095), Woodworx (Carpentry UK) Ltd (Co. No. 11828681) or Fire-worx (Fire Safety) UK Ltd (Co. No. 14615772). 'TWG' means those companies together, trading as TWG - The Worx Group.

This policy does not form part of any employee's contract of employment and may be amended at any time.

Aim

This Policy is designed to ensure that the employee can raise their concerns about wrongdoing or malpractice within TWG - The Worx Group (Roofworx, Woodworx and Fire-worx) without fear of victimisation, subsequent discrimination, disadvantage or dismissal. It is not designed to question financial or business decisions taken by the Company nor should it be used to reconsider any matters which have already been addressed under harassment, complaint, disciplinary or other procedures

It is also intended to encourage and enable the employee to raise serious concerns within the Company rather than ignoring a problem or 'blowing the whistle' externally.

Definition

A whistleblower is a worker who discloses information which they reasonably believe shows wrongdoing (such as a crime, a breach of a legal obligation, a danger to health and safety or the environment, or a cover-up of any of these) and which they reasonably believe is in the public interest.

Scope of Policy

This policy is designed to enable employees of TWG to raise concerns internally and at a high level and to disclose information which the individual believes shows malpractice or impropriety. This policy is intended to cover concerns which are in the public interest and may at least be investigated separately initially; however, involvement of other procedures e.g. disciplinary, may occur at a later date. These concerns could include but are not limited to:

- Financial malpractice or impropriety or fraud.
- Failure to comply with a legal obligation.
- Dangers to Health & Safety or the environment.
- Criminal activity.
- Improper conduct or unethical behaviour.
- Sexual harassment (disclosures about sexual harassment can be protected disclosures from 6 April 2026 under the Employment Rights Act 2025; see also the Sexual Harassment Policy).
- Attempts to conceal any of these.

Protection

This policy is designed to offer protection to the employees of TWG who disclose such concerns. The Company recognises that the decision to report a concern can be difficult; however, if the employee reasonably believes that the information shows wrongdoing and that the disclosure is in the public interest, then the Company wants to eliminate any fear or concerns about it as they will be doing their duty to TWG, their colleagues and those for whom they are providing a service. The Company will not tolerate any harassment or victimisation of a whistleblower, (including informal pressures) and will take appropriate action to protect the employee when a concern is raised, and will treat any harassment or victimisation as a serious disciplinary offence which will be dealt with under the disciplinary rules and procedure.

Throughout this process:

- The employee will be given full support from senior management.
- Any concerns will be taken seriously.
- TWG will do all it can to help the employee throughout the investigation.

Confidentiality

TWG will treat all such disclosures in a confidential and sensitive manner. The identity of the individual raising the concern may be kept confidential so long as it does not hinder the investigation. However, the investigation process may reveal the source of the information and the individual making the disclosure may be required to provide a statement as part of the evidence required.

Anonymous Allegations

This policy encourages employees to disclose their name to any concerns they raise, due to anonymous concerns being considered less credible; however, the Company may choose to consider anonymous concerns at its discretion.

In exercising this discretion, the factors to be considered will include:

- The seriousness of the issues raised.
- The credibility of the concern.
- The likelihood of confirming the allegation from attributable sources.

Untrue Allegations

If an employee makes an allegation which they reasonably believe to be true and in the public interest, which is not confirmed by subsequent investigation, no action will be taken against that individual. In making a disclosure the employee should exercise due care to ensure the accuracy of the information. If, however, an employee makes malicious or vexatious allegations, and particularly if they persist with making them, disciplinary action may be taken against that individual.

Reporting Procedure

On receipt of a complaint of malpractice, the employee who receives and takes note of the complaint, must pass this information as soon as is reasonably possible, to the Office Manager or a Director:

- Complaints of malpractice will be investigated by the appropriate office manager/director unless the complaint is against the office manager/director or is in any way related to the actions of those individuals. In such cases, the complaint should be passed to another Director.
- If there is evidence of criminal activity, then the investigator should inform the police. The Company will ensure that any internal investigation does not hinder a formal police investigation.

Investigation Procedure

The investigating officer should follow these steps:

- Full details and clarifications of the complaint should be obtained.
- The investigating officer should inform the employee, against whom the complaint is made, as soon as is practically possible. The employee will be informed of their right to be accompanied by a trade union representative or work colleague at any future interview or hearing held under the provision of these procedures.
- The investigating officer should consider the involvement of the Company auditors and the Police at this stage.
- The allegations should be fully investigated by the investigating officer with the assistance where appropriate, of other individuals / bodies.
- A judgement concerning the complaint and validity of the complaint will be made by the investigating officer. This judgement will be detailed in a written report containing the findings of the investigations and reasons for the judgement.
- The Director will decide what action to take. If the complaint is shown to be justified, then they will invoke the disciplinary or other appropriate Company procedures.
- The complainant should be kept informed of the progress of the investigations and, if appropriate, of the outcome.
- If appropriate, a copy of the outcomes will be passed to the Company Auditors to enable a review of the procedures.

If the investigation finds the allegations unsubstantiated and all internal procedures have been exhausted, but the complainant is not satisfied with the outcome, the Company recognises the lawful rights of employees and ex-employees to make disclosures to prescribed persons (for example the Health and Safety Executive, HM Revenue & Customs, the Building Safety Regulator, the Information Commissioner's Office, the Environment Agency or the Financial Conduct Authority), or, where justified, elsewhere. The full list of prescribed persons is published at www.gov.uk. Employees do not have to exhaust internal procedures before making a protected disclosure to a prescribed person.
